

AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS – CANBERRA

4 to 16 July 2026

CANBERRA WINTER CLIMATE

With an elevation of nearly 600 metres above sea level, Canberra has a cool temperate climate with four distinct seasons. It is characterised by warm to mild summers, cold winters with frequent frosts, and low humidity. July is the coldest month of the year, with an average maximum temperature of 12°C and an average low just above zero. The mean monthly rainfall is less than 45 mm, falling on an average of ten days in the month. The typical sunny day may start with frosts but warms up quickly. Overcast days may not be frosty but can be foggy and remain cold all day. Snow is rare in Canberra but is often visible on the surrounding mountain peaks in winter.

During winter all Canberra indoor venues are heated. That includes the ANC venue, restaurants, shops and shopping malls, and accommodation. However, if going outdoors for an extended time in winter, we recommend a jacket, gloves, beanie and scarf.

If you are planning to travel to or from Canberra on an early flight in winter, be aware that morning fog may cause temporary airport closures and/or flight delays.

Accommodation

There are several accommodation options in the Belconnen district. Some offer bridge player discounts. Look on the MyABF website for accommodation details and how to access the discounts.

The Kanga Cup, a national junior soccer competition, is usually held over 4-5 days in Canberra in July. You are advised to book your accommodation early. Takeway food outlets may have longer than usual queues.

Dining

There are more than eighty places to eat within the Belconnen Town Centre. Look for a list of those restaurants on MyABF to be published in mid-2026. We hope to negotiate some discounts for bridge players.

Canberra has many other restaurants. Many are in the city centre, but one of Canberra's best-kept secrets is that there are also excellent restaurants tucked away in the suburbs. For more information, visit the Canberra 'Wine and Dine' website.

Getting around Canberra

Canberra is a city designed for cars, but many find the circular roads in South Canberra confusing. The satellite cities are connected by multi-lane freeways. Most public carparks in Canberra require payment, but free parking for limited periods is often available in the car parks attached to the major shopping malls.

Major roadworks are currently occurring in Civic, where the latest stage of the light rail system is being installed. As a result, most Canberrans currently try to avoid driving through the city centre.

There are extensive bikeways throughout Canberra. Bicycles can be rented from several locations, listed online at How to Hire a Bike in Canberra. Shared e-scooters are a convenient option for short trips on their own or combined with public transport. Neuron Mobility operates e-scooter hire across Canberra. For more details see the online shared e-scooters map at Shared e-scooters - City Services.

The Canberra public transport network has a 'hub and spokes' arrangement. Each town centre has a major bus interchange where you can connect with buses radiating out to the nearby suburbs, or catch a bus to another town centre. The Belconnen bus interchange is located across the road from the ANC venue. Rapid routes to the Belconnen interchange are labelled R2, R3, R4, R8 and R9.

For those planning to fly to or from Canberra, the R3 bus route operates between the Canberra Airport terminal and the Belconnen bus interchange. The bus ride takes approximately 41 minutes and operates approximately every 15-20 minutes between 6 am and 11 pm.

Canberra is in the early stages of installing a light rail system, but it currently operates only in North Canberra, mainly down the centre of Northbourne Avenue.

There are several ways of paying for public transport in Canberra. You can tap or scan your preferred option at any validator:

- Mastercard or Visa card – a physical card or digital card stored on your smart phone or watch;
- a MyWay+ digital ticket purchased through the MyWay+ app;
- a MyWay+ card, purchased at MyWay+ retail outlets;
- a printed ticket, purchased at ticket vending machines.

All seniors (including interstate residents) are entitled to free off-peak travel. On Fridays there is free public transport for everyone.

For more details of transport options in Canberra, including fares and timetables, visit the Transport Canberra website (public transport options).

Health care

For health care for injuries and illnesses that are not life-threatening there is a free walk-in clinic at the intersection of Lathlain and Cohen Streets in Belconnen. It is open between 7.30 am and 10 pm and no appointment is required. The North Canberra Hospital (formerly known as the Calvary Hospital) is a public hospital, with a 24-hour emergency department, located 3 km from the Canberra Labor Club.

The Chemist Discount Centre at 33 Egan St Belconnen (phone 02 6251 5775) is 1.3 km from the Canberra Labor Club and is open from 7:30 am to midnight.

Packing medication for colds and flu is recommended, given the nature of the Canberra winter climate and the enclosed playing areas. The extent of respiratory infections experienced during some previous bridge events suggests that vaccinations for flu, RSV and Covid a month before attending the 2026 ANC are a wise precaution. To minimise the spread of infection, those with persistent coughs and sneezes are asked to wear a mask and sanitise their hands frequently.

Canberra attractions

Canberra is the nation's capital. It is well-known for its national buildings and monuments. Information about attractions in Canberra can be obtained by visiting the Canberra and Region Visitor Information Centre at Regatta Point, the information booth at Canberra Airport, or at the VisitCanberra website (Canberra tourist information). In most cases there is no charge for admission to national attractions. Many attractions include a café and/or restaurant open to the public. Some of these restaurants are highly regarded by Canberrans, but bookings are essential.

Outdoor attractions:

- Lake Burley Griffin (Parkes) offers the opportunity to walk, cycle or jog around this iconic Canberra feature. The 5 km route around the central basin crosses two bridges, passes most of the national buildings and monuments in Parkes and traverses Commonwealth Park. Take in the vista along Anzac Parade to the War Memorial and Mount Ainslie in one direction and to the new and old Parliament Houses in the other. Download the Lake Burley Griffin Self-Guided Walking Tour.
- National Arboretum (Molonglo) offers a mosaic of living forests and gardens that also offers breathtaking views of Canberra. With over 44 000 rare and endangered trees across the 250-hectare site, the Arboretum is a place of beauty, conservation, science research, education, tourism and recreation. You can drive through or walk around the site. The Arboretum includes The National Bonsai and Penjing Collection of Australia.
- Australian National Botanic Gardens (Acton) is a heritage-listed botanical garden located at the foot of Black Mountain. Its mission is to "study and promote Australia's flora" and it contains the largest living collection of native Australian plants, organised in thematic sections.
- National Carillon (Parkes) is a gift from Britain to mark Canberra's 50th birthday, it houses 57 bronze bells, weighing a total of 32 000 kg, which are controlled from a specially designed keyboard. Take a picnic and sit by the lake to hear recitals on Sundays and Wednesdays, 12:30-1:30 pm.
- Anzac Parade (Campbell and Reid) is home to 13 powerful outdoor memorials that honour various aspects of Australian military history, from the Boer War to more recent conflicts. Download the details of the memorials at Anzac Parade Self-Guided Walking Tour.
- Diplomatic Missions of more than 110 foreign governments are hosted in Canberra. They facilitate relationships between their governments and the Australian Government. The various governments were encouraged to design their missions to reflect their country's national architectural style. This practice is unique and allows the embassies to be easily identified. Download a self-guided driving tour at diplomatic missions tour.

Indoor attractions:

- Parliament House (Parkes) is the home of Australia's robust democracy. See some of the nation's finest historical treasures, symbolic architecture and contemporary art on display throughout the building. Guided tours are available. Parliament is not expected to be in session during the ANC.
- Museum of Australian Democracy (Parkes) is located in the Old Parliament House and showcases Australia's rich democratic history. Take a tour (self-guided or guided) to learn about the individuals and events of Australian democracy, in the very building where they occurred
- Australian War Memorial (Campbell) houses exhibitions in three main galleries about Australia's involvement in major conflicts (self-guided or with a free guide), The more than 7000 objects on display tell of Australia's continuing story of service, sacrifice and military history. New extensions to the building have recently opened. At 4:30 pm each day the Memorial farewells visitors with a moving Last Post Ceremony in the Commemorative Courtyard. The ceremony features the story behind one of the names on the surrounding Roll of Honour.
- National Gallery and National Sculpture Gardens (Parkes) displays an evolving collection of over 155 000 works of art, created by more than 15 000 artists. It houses the world's largest collection of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander art. Featured in July is the Know My Name: Kee, Jackson and Delaunay exhibition that showcases two of Australia's leading fashion designers and an international, multidisciplinary artist.
- National Portrait Gallery (Parkes) tells Australian stories through the art of portraiture to showcase well-known Australians and reflect the nation's identity, history, culture, creativity and diversity.
- High Court of Australia (Parkes) is a monumental work of modern architecture, forty metres tall and constructed mainly of concrete and glass. Visitors are welcome during ordinary opening hours to see the court at work and learn about the building and its history, role and operation from the Court Guides. If court is sitting, you can watch proceedings.
- Questacon (Parkes) is popular with children, seeking to stimulate engagement with science, technology and innovation through fun interactive learning experiences. Bookings are essential, especially during school holidays.
- National Museum of Australia (Acton) is located on a peninsular in Lake Burley Griffin, on the far side of Black Mountain from Belconnen. It brings to life the rich and diverse stories of Australia through compelling objects, ideas and events. In July 2026, the museum is holding three exhibitions: 'Variations on the Classical', 'Talking Blak to History' and 'Great Southern Land'.
- National Capital Exhibition (Parkes) explores the people and the events that shaped the story of Canberra, including the first nations people, the choosing of the site, the international design competition and building of the city.

- National Archives of Australia (Barton) contains more than 45 million Australian Government records from Federation in 1901 to now, including those about key events and decisions that have shaped Australia. There are two permanent exhibitions highlighting stories from the collection: Connections/Mura gadi and Voices/Dhuniai.
- National Library (Parkes) houses a collection of Australian publications and stories with national significance. The collection is the largest in the world that focuses on Australia and its people. By bringing together these stories, the library helps Australians to understand their past, present, and place in the world. There is a permanent display of documents, publications and artefacts of significance in Australian history.
- National Film and Sound Archive (Acton) is Australia's national audiovisual cultural institution. It collects, preserves and shares Australia's audiovisual culture.
- Sydney Nolan Collection (Civic) is an iconic group of paintings from 1945 to 1953 by Sidney Nolan that the artist gifted to the nation in 1974. It features photographs and original text following Nolan's personal and creative journey from St Kilda lad to sophisticated artist. The Canberra Museum and Art Gallery manages the collection on behalf of the Australian Government.
- Geoscience Australia (Symonston) is home to the National Mineral and Fossil Collection. It includes minerals, fossils and meteorites, with around 700 items on permanent display in the foyer.
- Blundells Cottage (Parkes) is a restored stone dwelling in Commonwealth Park. It was built around 1860, when Canberra was a rural landscape, to house the head ploughman on the property 'Duntroon'. It was occupied until 1961, when it was handed over to the Canberra District Historical Society. It is open from 10 am to 2 pm on weekends.
- Lanyon Homestead (Tharwa) is a restored 1850s homestead, the central feature of a pastoral property with convict-era outbuildings and stunning gardens.

Less well known are the attractions in the Belconnen district.

- Cockington Green (Gold Creek) is an award-winning miniature landscape park at Gold Creek. Famous buildings around the world are depicted in small-scale. The garden is divided into two exhibition areas: English country life and world-famous buildings.
- National Dinosaur Museum (Gold Creek) is an interactive insight into the earth's long and dynamic history. The museum houses life-like dinosaur models, full skeletons, skulls, and animatronic dinosaurs, and visitors can navigate through millions of years of earth's ancient past.
- Historic Hall Village predates the establishment of Canberra. It is located on the northwestern side of the ACT near the NSW border. Proclaimed in 1882, the village is surrounded by open country and has a rural appearance while retaining its village character. The heritage-listed town features historic buildings that existed before the establishment of Canberra. A self-guided 'heritage walk' around the village takes about 90 minutes. There is a market in Hall from 9 am to 2 pm on the first Sunday of each month (including 5 July 2026).
- Black Mountain is visible throughout Belconnen. The venue for the ANC Presentation Dinner has panoramic views of the mountain. The road up the mountain starts on the southeastern side of the mountain (in Clunies Ross St, Acton) and a walking trail starts on the northwestern side in Aranda. On a clear day, the summit allows spectacular views of Canberra in all directions. The Black Mountain tower, closed for many years, is undergoing refurbishment prior to reopening.

Local products

Cold country wines are made in the Canberra district. There are 140 vineyards within 35 minutes' drive of the city. Take a self-guided tour of the local wineries or a one-day commercial tour, details available online at wine tours.

Truffles are a developing industry around Canberra. June to August is the harvest season. Visit the 'Truffle Farm' in Mt Majura Rd for one of their three signature truffle experiences (on Saturdays or Sundays in winter - book online first). 'Beltana Farm' near the airport also offers truffle hunts and showcases the truffles in their restaurant menu. Local truffles also a feature in dishes in many Canberra restaurants.

Poachers Pantry is just over the border from Belconnen in NSW. It is one of the finest smokehouses in Australia. Their products are prepared using traditional hand-crafted techniques by a team dedicated to making exceptional quality products. They regularly win medals at the Royal Fine Food Show. Visit the farm shop and stay for lunch or look for their products in local gourmet shops and market stalls.

Three Mills Bakery is a local company that specializes in sourdough products and pastries. Visit their outlet at the Capital Food Markets in Belconnen or look for their products in local stores.

Lychee Gold is a refreshing sweet cider made with lychees, in two strengths: Premium (8% alcohol) and Low Alcohol (1.15% alcohol). It is made in Spring Range just across the NSW border NSW near Murrumbateman.

The Capital Region Farmers Market is the largest farmers market in the Southern Tablelands. It is held at Exhibition Park near Watson. It is a local favourite and Saturday morning must-do in Canberra (7 am to 11:30 am). More than 100 stallholders sell everything from honey to vegetables and smallgoods.

Winter festivals and celebrations

Canberrans celebrate the winter season with a variety of festivals and cold climate events. They include the following:

- Winter in the City festival when the city comes alive for 15 days in July. City Walk becomes a winter stage for a range of lively family-friendly and free entertainment and performances every afternoon and evening. Enjoy the hot chocolate bars and try your hand at ice-skating. The Festival of Winter culminates on Sat 18 July with The Forage, an event that brings together the Canberra region's best food trucks, restaurants and mobile food and beverage vendors for a celebration of gourmet street food. For more information, visit Winter in the City.
- Christmas in July occurs at the Patrick White Lawns (between the National Library of Australia and Lake Burley Griffin) from July 2 to 5. Be transported to the wintry wonderland of eastern France, where the magic of the holiday season is brought to life through twinkling fairy lights, bubbling pots of melted cheese, cozy fire pits, and steaming mugs of mulled wine, and much more. For details, visit Christmas in July.
- Winter Festival is an exciting celebration of the best of the cold climate produce of the Canberra Region. Held in July, it features premium and rare goods from the region, including fine foods such as truffles, wine, garlic, olives and much more, the Cellar Door wine market, and delicious ready-to-eat goodies. There will also be fire and entertainment for all ages. For more information visit Winter Festival – Southern Harvest.

Don't forget to rug up well for these outdoor events.

Local shopping

There is a Woolworths Metro in Graziers Lane, about 300 metres from the Canberra Labor Club. It is open until 9 pm each day.

The Westfield Belconnen Mall is one of the major retail centres in Canberra, located just 900 metres from the Canberra Labor Club. It is open from 9 am to 5:30 most days, except Fridays when it does not close until 9 pm and Sundays when it opens from 10 am to 4 pm. Spread over three levels, the centre contains a food court, three major supermarkets, several department stores, a cinema and over 270 specialty stores or restaurants. Free undercover parking is available.

The Capital Food Market in Belconnen is just over 1 km from the Canberra Labor Club. Recently redeveloped, it claims to be the city's leading fresh food and casual dining experience, all under one roof. This is the place to stock up with goodies for your fridge. Retail outlets are open from Wed to Sun from 8 am to 6 pm, but restaurants are open for lunch and dinner seven days a week.

Exercise locally

For those seeking outdoor exercise, try walking, running or cycling around Lake Ginninderra. The shortest loop is 5 km on compacted or paved paths, rated as 'easy', and the walk takes about 90 minutes. The entire loop around the lake is 30 km. Bicycle hire is available. A walk to, and around, the Belconnen Mall is an option for a colder day. Further afield, a walk through the Botanic Gardens at the foot of Black Mountain is interesting. The very energetic may consider the climb up Black Mountain.

Hitting the slopes

Corin Forest is Canberra's closest snow destination and an ideal spot for first-timers to see snow, without a long drive from the city centre. It offers gentle beginner slopes for skiing and snowboarding. Alternatively, build snowmen and make snow angels before feasting on woodfired pizza and hot chocolate before the open fire in indoor café.

Further afield, experience the enchanting Snowy Mountains region with a snow trip departing from Canberra. Choose from a range of packages, from 1 to 3 days duration, tailored to suit your preferences. Snow tour packages provide a hassle-free experience, with seamless transportation and comfortable accommodation. Alternatively, drive yourself – it takes just over two hours to reach Jindabyne. For more details, visit the SnowSearch Australia website at <https://snowsearch.com.au/snow-tours-from-canberra>.
